Canadian Stars Come Together to Support Fredericton

For one incredible night in October, some of the biggest names in Canadian music will take the stage at the Aitken Centre in Fredericton to show the world that Fredericton is stronger than ever.

The all-star line-up will shine a spotlight on east coast talent, with Matt Mays, Matt Andersen, Classified, Neon Dreams, and Tristan Horncastle already announced. David Myles will be the host and MC for the evening. Organizers expect up to a dozen Canadian artists to share the stage for a five-hour concert to pay tribute to first responders and bring a community closer together. Additional performers will be announced in the coming days, featuring some of the biggest names in pop, country, and rock music in Canada.

Fredericton's two radio broadcasters, Newcap Radio and Bell Media, are working together to organize and promote the concert, with all proceeds staying in the community supporting local charities.

Tickets will go on sale on Wednesday, August 29 at 10am at the Aitken Centre website at auc.unb.ca and at the Aitken Centre box office, open 11am to 4pm Monday to Friday.
